OBTAIN ONLY SMALL
SUM AFTER BLOWING
STEEL DOOR TO BITS

Professional Talent
Blamed; Loot Is Only $8 To $10

Using what authorities are convinced was a powerful charge of nitroglycerin, yeggs blew a large steel safe in an office at the Johnston Motor Sales, Springfield Pike, sometime Wednesday night, but obtained only $8 or $10 in money for their trouble.

Although there was no indication the cracksmen had made any attempt to muffle the sound of the explosive, residents in the immediate vicinity reported they did not hear it during the night. The robbery was not discovered until a mechanic came to work early Thursday morning.

So powerful was the explosive used, that the door of the safe was reduced to bits, and pieces of cement filler were blown across the room and through the panel of a wooden door communicating with the front office.

Belief of authorities that nitroglycerin which is exploded by percussion, was used was substantiated by a partly burned fuse and evidence of soap on the walls and about the room.

The safe was in a middle office. In another room in the rear was a smaller safe, in which no money was kept and which had been left unlocked. The door of this safe was found standing open but nothing was removed.

Force of the explosion not only wrecked the larger safe, but partly destroyed some books kept inside. The loot was small because it had not been the agency's policy to keep much money in the safe, according to Fred A. Johnston, owner.

Entrance to the building was gained by breaking the glass panes of a rear window.

Sheriff John Baughn and Police Chief O. H. Cornell, who examined the interior of the office for fingerprints, found none, they said, indicating that gloves were worn by the yeggs.

Pointing out that Clark County has been the scene of numerous safe-cracking jobs recently, Sheriff Baughn advanced his opinion that a professional band of cracksmen may have extended its activities to this county.

SLAYS COUSIN TO SAVE SELF

Dayton Man Pleads Self Defense

DAYTON, O., April 28.—William Ellerman, 36, carpenter, was shot and killed Wednesday night by his cousin, Louis Ellerman, 32, in the latter's home here.

The shooting prevented the possible murder of both Louis Ellerman and his wife, Mildred, and the suicide of William, police believed.

William was shot down, police said, as he was forcing Mrs. Mildred Ellerman to write a note, at pistol point, which read:

"Oh Lord, please forgive me for committing this double murder and suicide. I said they would not put me out of this house and they did."

Three shotgun charges interrupted the dictation and William fell, mortally wounded. Louis gave himself up to police, claiming he fired in self defense.

An argument started, Louis said, when his wife gave a board bill to the other man, who had been living at the house for eighteen months.

No formal charges were filed against the slayer, pending further investigation by police and Coroner Maurice Cooper.

QUIZ SUSPECT IN CANTON SHOOTING

CANTON, O., April 28.—Police here were questioning one suspect today in connection with the attempted murder of Harry Bouklas, 43, freelance investigator and circulation employee of the Ohio Examiner, a weekly newspaper published at Columbus.

Bouklas, a former bootlegger, was shot down in front of his home here. He received shotgun wounds in the back and side but was reported out of danger today at Mercy Hospital.

Police Chief Earl W. Hexamer and County Prosecutor James M. Aungst are conducting separate investigations of the shooting of Bouklas.

Bouklas was mentioned in the investigation of vice conditions here several years ago in which former Safety Director E. E. Curtis was convicted on charges of underworld affiliations.

ARMCO IS REPORTED INVOLVED IN MERGER OF STEEL COMPANIES

TRAGIC ELOPEMENT

Disillusionment and bitter memories are all that now remain of her romance for Angeline Mastromar, 18, of Swampscott, Mass., daughter of a wealthy Italian, arrested at Pittsburgh after police had searched for her since last February. She disappeared with $3,000 from her father's safe and his friend, Giacomo Salustri, 37, in jail, at Pittsburgh, before she was returned to her parents, Mrs. Mastromar, police say, declared that Salustri, who was arrested at Akron, O., lured her away from home on a promise of marrying her.

SUSPECTS IN STATE OFFICE EXPLOSION WILL BE RETURNED

Waive Extradition In Chicago; Confess
Two Robberies

COLUMBUS, O., April 28.—Edward Wallace and Frank Wilson, one in the state office building explosion, arrested in Chicago, will waive extradition and be returned to Columbus today.

Their attorney, Arnold Harris, announced late Wednesday that the men would waive extradition, and said he would accompany them here.

Previously Harris had protested the extradition saying the process was illegal because the men were charged with automobile theft whereas they actually were wanted for questioning in connection with the explosion.

Robbery of two post office safes, one in Columbus and one at Grove City, was admitted yesterday by the men.

A safe in the confectionery of C. S. Steinhof, Columbus, was dynamited April 7 and $340 stolen of which $300 was government money.

After the Grove City safe was robbed of $156, December 28, a crow bar was found with the initials "E. W."

Wallace and Wilson told Deputy Inspector D. F. Lyons and Detective Sergeant Edward Hayes of the Chicago police their accomplice was Paul Keltner who also is being held. He was in the house of correction at the time Wallace and Wilson were arrested.

The men were found in a car stolen from the garage of George Snider, of Columbus. In the car were found dynamite and tools allegedly stolen from the Healy Construction Co., contractors who worked on the state office building.

They admitted they worked on the building in the employ of the Healy company which finished its part of the job a year ago. Healy officials said the two men were discharged two years ago because they were suspected of stealing materials.

Both men deny knowing anything about the origin of the explosion which wrecked the office building.

ACCUSED MAN DIES
PORTSMOUTH, O., April 28.—Paul Halley, 56, of Coal Grove, on trial on an arson charge, died Wednesday after an illness of several weeks.

Claim Eaton Heading Consolidation Of Five Companies

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Printed reports that negotiations were being conducted for a $1,000,000,000 merger of five leading independent steel companies were denied today by Assistant Attorney General O'Brien.

O'Brien, in charge of anti-trust activities of the department of justice said the department has not been asked for an opinion concerning the legality of such a development and that he knew nothing of any such plan.

The companies involved are Republic Steel Corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, Inland Steel Corporation and American Rolling Mills Co. They have a total ingot capacity of 15,410,000 tons and if merged would rank second only to the giant United States Steel Corporation which has 27,841,000 tons capacity.

Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, in sponsoring the merger, the Washington Post said. His representatives have asked the department of justice for an informal opinion as to its legality under the anti-trust laws.

Eaton two years ago won a sensational battle to prevent merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube with Bethlehem Steel. Bethlehem, however, still holds a considerable stock interest in Youngstown. Eaton is now said to be negotiating directly with Charles M. Schwab of Bethlehem for acquisition of this interest.

It is not believed the government would approve the merger if Bethlehem retained this stock ownership. Inclusion of Bethlehem in the consolidation would give it and U. S. Steel more than 80 per cent of the total ingot capacity of all steel companies in the country.

CLEVELAND, O., April 28.—Reported plans of Cyrus S. Eaton to mould a billion-dollar steel merger from five independents were received skeptically here today as officials protested lack of knowledge of the matter.

Sources close to the Cleveland financier said they knew nothing of such a plan while Henry G. Dalton, chairman of Youngstown Sheet and Tube, went a step further to say that insofar as his company is concerned there was "definitely nothing to it."

Reports which have received the widest circulation both here and in the Youngstown district in the past year describe a plan to re-sume merger negotiations between Sheet and Tube and Bethlehem Steel Corp., the consolidation that was defeated by Eaton in 1930 in his bitter injunction fight. These reports gained considerable headway when Dalton resigned from the Bethlehem directorate to become chairman of the Sheet and Tube board.

POLICEMAN FREED OF SLAYING CHARGE

CLEVELAND, April 28.—Patrolman Arthur Robinson was exonerated by his superior officers today of the killing of Patsy Corrado, 44, who was shot as he tried to escape from the officer.

Corrado's estranged wife, Ethel, had called police to her home reporting her husband was standing outside the doorway threatening to shoot anyone who approached.

Police Sergeant William O'Brien and Robinson went to the house and reported Corrado started to run as they stepped from a police car.

After shouting at him several times to stop, Robinson said he fired when he saw something shiny in Corrado's hand and thought it was a gun.

Near the body police found a toy automatic pistol, the weapon with which Corrado had tried to intimidate his wife and police.

JURY DELIBERATES FATE OF AMERICANS IN HAWAII SLAYING

Hears Dramatic Pleas By Prosecutor And By Darrow

HONOLULU, April 28.—A jury of Caucasians, natives and Chinese today considered whether four American honor slayers should be punished for the slaying of Joe Kahahawai, a native accused of attacking the wife of a United States naval officer.

An impassioned plea for liberty by Clarence Darrow and a blunt, biting demand from Prosecutor John Kelly for punishment and "justice" were the final episodes in this dramatic trial before Judge Charles Davis sent the jury away to deliberate. It has four courses of action:

1. Guilty of second degree murder, punishable by imprisonment for from twenty years to life.
2. Guilty of manslaughter.
3. Not guilty by reason of insanity.
4. Not guilty.

Separate verdicts may be returned for each of the four—Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, N. S. N., Mrs. Granville Fortescue, A. O. Jones and E. J. Lord. The verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity may be returned only for Massie, since for him alone was the insanity defense offered.

They are accused of slaying the native to avenge the attack of five men on Thalia Fortescue Massie, wife of the naval officer and daughter of Mrs. Fortescue.

The jurors retired for deliberations at 4:25 p. m. (Honolulu time or 9:55 p. m. EST) Wednesday and were led out to dinner an hour later. The jury resumed deliberations at 7:40 p. m. (1:10 a. m. EST). They were locked up for the night at 10:01 Honolulu time. No indication that a verdict was close was given by the jurors.

The climax in this long trial lived up to all the expectations. Clarence Darrow, a lifetime of court success behind him, called upon all of his ebbing strength to

REPORT OHIO POET DROWNS

Hart Crane Received
Guggenheim Aid

CLEVELAND, O., April 28.—Hart Crane, young poet, was drowned while sailing from Vera Cruz to New York on the steamer Orizaba according to a radiogram received here today by his uncle, N. B. Madden.

Madden said the message was sent by a fellow passenger and gave no further details. Crane was 33, the son of Clarence Crane, founder of the Crane Candy Co., who died last June.

After receiving a $1500 fellowship from the John Simon Guggenheim foundation to carry on work in creative poetry in Mexico, the young poet went to Mexico City a year ago.

Crane was born in Garrettsville, O. He traveled extensively after his graduation from high school but customarily spent part of each year at the home of his father in Chagrin Falls, O., until the latter's death.

Madden said Crane sailed from Vera Cruz last Monday and had written he would come here for a long rest. Crane was the author of "White Buildings" and "The Bridge." Otto H. Kahn of New York sponsored publication of the latter.

DRY AGENT WEARS CRUSADER BUTTON

CLEVELAND, O., April 28.—A formal complaint to federal prohibition authorities was planned today by Ralph Newman, assistant national secretary of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition society, after one prohibition agent had been found, wearing a Crusader button.

Agent George R. L. Cole, Jr., was wearing one of the buttons while testifying at a liquor hearing here yesterday. He declined to discuss where he had got it.

"We don't want our buttons defiled by a prohibition agent," Newman said.

Deputy Prohibition Administrator L. A. Toombs said he was "very, very sorry it happened," and promised it wouldn't happen again.

YOUTH DROWNS

ZANESVILLE, O., April 28.—Raymond Drake, 18-year-old son of Edward Drake, of East Fultonham, drowned here Wednesday as he fell out of a boat in a pond near the Fultonham Textile Brick Co. plant, ten miles west of here. A companion, Burl Pierce, swam to safety.

THREE FILM NOTABLES "GET GATE"

Marlene Dietrich and James Cagney, two of the best motion picture-making stars in motion pictures, and Joseph von Sternberg, the noted director who discovered Miss Dietrich, have joined the ranks of the unemployed, at least temporarily. Marlene, above, failed to show up for work on a new picture after

BURY DOG WITH CEREMONY

Animal Laid To Rest In Ornate Bronze Casket
By Grief-Stricken Master

TIPPIN, O., April 28.—Frank Callahan, 55, wealthy turfman, who is widely known in the Grand Circuit, today said he had lost his "greatest friend" as he stood by an ornate bronze casket gazing upon the body of his dog, "Baby Ginter."

Callahan wept. Hundreds of his neighbors pressed near to the splendor of glistening metal and banded flowers. Baby Ginter was a Pomeranian.

Callahan was in Milwaukee when the dog died, aged 11 years. He hurried here and bought the casket, designed for a child. It cost $400.

Workmen were in Callahan's garden building an impressive vault and monument to cost nearly $1,000.

"He was more than a pet," said the sportsman. "He was my greatest friend."

Baby Ginter will be buried without the benefit of clergy. Ministers and undertakers frowned upon the elaborate ceremony. They spoke of sacrilege.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS LOWER COURTS IN OGLESBEE WILL CASE

COLUMBUS, O., April 28.—The state supreme court today sustained mandates by the courts of Greene County, ordering rights of George D. Oglesbee under the will of the late Martha Selver Oglesbee forfeited.

In a formal decision the high court affirmed the Greene County appeals court, which dismissed Oglesbee's appeal.

Oglesbee's rights under the will were declared forfeited by the common pleas court following hearing of a suit brought by W. L. Miller, Xenia, executor of the late Martha Oglesbee's estate.

The high court's decision will allow Miller to redistribute the Oglesbee estate.

Oglesbee had been left all his wife's property, with the stipulation that he keep the farms in a state of good cultivation; maintain the buildings and fences in good repair; pay taxes, and refrain from selling certain property bequeathed to him.

Miller claimed Oglesbee failed to carry out terms of the will.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 28.—Two men were killed and a man and child injured today when the west-bound Maple Leaf flyer, Grand Trunk express train, was derailed on a high embankment here.

The dead were James Groves, Battle Creek, Mich., engineer, and Walter Shinning, Battle Creek, fireman.

The injured were Jeff Bradburn and his son Marshall, 5, trapped in the wreckage of their house when an express car careened off the embankment and plunged through the roof.

No passengers were hurt. Seven baggage and express coaches and the engine left the track.

BANKS ATTACKED AS BEARS BY CHAIRMAN OF MARKET PROBERS

Increase Deflation By Refusing Loans Is Charged

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Chairman Norbeck of the senate banking committee today accused the banks of being "bears" and threatened to broaden the committee's stock market investigation to include them.

Banks by refusing to grant new loans or extend well-secured old ones, are "adding to the force of the deflation and destroying the value of all property," Norbeck charged.

He said the banks had failed to pass along to the public the benefits of the administration's financial relief legislation and were not cooperating in the federal reserve's credit expansion program. He cited federal reserve statistics showing that member banks in leading cities had reduced their loans on securities by $309,000,000 since March 2 although an additional $113,000,000 of reserve bank credit had been made available to them.

These figures prove that part of the supply of securities, which has been causing the decline in all security markets has been coming from "these banks," Norbeck asserted, "and it is apparent that the action of the commercial banks in this respect is a major contribution to the present lack of confidence and crippled condition of business."

He said that if this condition continued, he was "going to recommend to the senate committee on banking that this matter be gone into fully. This can be done by bringing to Washington some of the bankers who have large cash reserves and more available credit and are still refusing to make new loans and even refusing to grant extensions where the borrower is worthy and the security is satisfactory."

If liquidation continues, Norbeck said, "We must find out what part the bankers are playing in forcing down the value of American property to 'junk' prices. The bear raiders are bad enough; the bankers should not help them."

Wall Street meantime is striking back at the stock market investigation by challenging some of the witnesses before the senate committee.

"They are claiming," said Norbeck, "that Edward Knight was indicted and pleaded guilty in 1929 to some kind of financial charge. We do not want to apologize. Mr. Knight was a volunteer witness. He did not testify against any one. He simply told us of general practices in the stock market. His friends assure me that he was framed."

Knight testified last week. He formerly was brokerage accountant in New York and now is employed by the federal government.

The investigation board of strategy from grch President Hoover's spokesman, Senator Walcott, Rep., Conn., has been excluded, was summoned to meet again today to discuss the inquiry with William A. Gray, committee counsel.

FLYER STARTS FOR HAVANA

MONTREAL, April 28.—Lou Retchers, U. S. flier, Havana-bound, soared into the air from St. Hubert airport this morning at 9:45 E. S. T. in his new plane, the Bernier MacFadden.

The trip is to be in the nature of a test flight.

He hopes to reach the Cuban capital—a distance of approximately 1,750 miles from St. Hubert airport—in about eight hours.

Under his leadership, diverse factions opposing the pay cut united to defeat the committee's plan.

Wage reduction opponents began by shouting down an attempt by the house leaders to impose a "gag" rule that would have strictly limited debate and amendments.

Chairman McDuffie of the economy committee then stated its case for the committee's pay cut plan. "The people are demanding that the cost of government be brought down," he shouted. "The cost of living has gone down more than we propose to reduce any salary."

The amendment increasing the pay cut exemption to $2,500 was offered by Sen. Britten, Rep., Ill.

VOTE GETTING

COLUMBUS, O., April 28.—Earle L. Johnson, state representative from Painesville, and manager of David S. Ingalls' campaign for governor, earned some votes in Centerville.

Johnson, flying from Youngstown to Columbus, sighted smoke coming from the roof of a house near Centerville. Driving his plane low over the house, Johnson, after several attempts brought a woman out into the yard, where she saw the roof ablaze. Johnson then aroused neighboring farm houses in the same manner.

Unable to find a place to land to aid in fighting the fire, he flew on to Columbus.

REBELLIOUS HOUSE REFUSES TO REDUCE WAGES UNDER $2,500

Brand Opposes Higher Exemption But Move Carries

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A rebellious house has wrecked the Democratic economy bill and refused to reduce the salaries of the hundreds of thousands of government employees making less than $2,500 a year.

Before galleries crowded with government clerks whose wages were at stake, the house last night by 173 to 148 raised from $1,000 to $2,500 the exemption from the 11 per cent pay cut proposed by its economy committee. Then by a vote of 185 to 97 it approved the salary reduction section of the bill.

Ohio's delegation voted eleven to seven for the $2,500 exemption. Supporters of the amendment were: Rep. Sweeney, Lammek, Underwood, Crosser, Hess, Cooper, West, White, McClintock, Mouser, and Bolton.

Those who opposed it were Polk, Fiesinger, Cable, Moore, Jenkins and Brand. Rep. Seiberling on the first vote was opposed to the measure but on the second he switched to the majority ranks.

The 11 per cent cut with only $1,000 exempted was the heart of the economy measure. The committee counted on it for $67,302,000 of the $200,000,000 total savings in the bill. The increase in exemption reduced to $12,000,000 the savings to be made by pay cuts.

A proposal to eliminate Saturday half-holidays was to be voted on today. It is under heavy attack and if defeated would cut another $9,000,000 from the savings in the bill. Proposed consolidation of the war and navy departments, estimated to save $50,000,000 or more, is conceded little chance for passage. Sharp controversy also has developed around the proposed $48,000,000 are pay cut in veterans' benefits.

The fate of the Democratic leadership on the pay reduction was the story of the sales tax debacle all over again. Rep. LaGuardia progressive Republican from New York, again was the commanding figure.

Under his leadership, diverse factions opposing the pay cut united to defeat the committee's plan.

Wage reduction opponents began by shouting down an attempt by the house leaders to impose a "gag" rule that would have strictly limited debate and amendments.

Chairman McDuffie of the economy committee then stated its case for the committee's pay cut plan. "The people are demanding that the cost of government be brought down," he shouted. "The cost of living has gone down more than we propose to reduce any salary."

The amendment increasing the pay cut exemption to $2,500 was offered by Sen. Britten, Rep., Ill.

Good Gardening

UNDERGROUND GARDENING
By Dean Halliday
Garden Expert for Central Press and The Gazette

"I see you're digging up your garden. What's the matter, are you tired of it?" asked my neighbor.

"Not a bit," I replied, "but I've learned that to have a real garden, there must be proper drainage, so I'm digging trenches for surface tiling."

Drainage is one of the most important requirements for good gardening.

Properly, a drainage system for the garden or lawn should be put in when the house is built. If this has not been done, surface tiling can be put in without much trouble.

When a house is being built it is wise to protect the top soil if you hope to have a good lawn or garden afterwards. Unless watched workmen will throw waste material such as lime, cement and plaster out of the windows into the excavation next to the basement walls. The lime and other things in the waste become water-soaked and spread in solution to the surrounding soil. This causes a change in the chemical make-up of the soil and often is harmful to the plants and shrubs used for foundation plantings, such as evergreens, rhododendrons and mountain laurels.

Free Gardening Advice

Before you lime your lawn this spring, often from force of habit or because neighbors do it, write for information as to when to do it and when not to do it. Address your letter to the Good Gardening Department, The Gazette, enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope for a FREE personal reply.

BIBLE CLASS MEETS HERE WEDNESDAY

An entertaining program of readings and music was presented when the "Loyal Workers" Bible Class of the First M. E. Church met in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon. Members of the executive board of the Woman's Bible Class were guests at the meeting.

Mrs. M. A. Hagler, assisted by Mrs. James P. Lytle, conducted the devotional period. Mrs. Elwood Swan sang a solo and Mrs. R. C. Leebetter gave a group of readings. Mrs. Richard McClelland also sang a group of solos and Mrs. A. C. Turrell gave a reading. Mr. Roy Siefert entertained the group with a vocal solo, playing his own accompaniment. Mrs. Allen Haines was chairman of the program.

A social hour followed the program and refreshments were served by the following committee: Mrs. J. C. Armentrout, Mrs. James Harner, Mrs. Ben Chambliss, Mrs. Ira Thomas and Miss Jennie Rader.

BAPTIST CLASS IS ENTERTAINED TUESDAY

Mrs. Wilbur Pitzer and Mrs. R. C. Wirthlin were hostesses to members of the Ann Judson Philanthropic Class of the First Baptist Church at the home of Mrs. Pitzer, 31 Monroe St., Tuesday evening. Mrs. D. A. DeWine, president, presided at a short business meeting and later a social time was enjoyed.

A contest, "The Human Auto," with Mrs. J. C. Denham and Mrs. Kenneth Dice, as captains of the two respective sides, was an enjoyable feature. Mrs. Denham was winner and was presented a prize which later was auctioned off. Refreshments were served later in the evening.

Members of the class will be entertained at a "depression party" at their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Dice.

ELKS ENTERTAIN AT DINNER-DANCE HERE

Church, New Jasper, will speak on "Economic Aspects of Prohibition" at a community temperance rally at the Methodist Protestant Church, Bowersville, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. ## ASWELL FORGETS ROLLS ROYCE

Says Shoup Has Him Confused With Rockefeller

"JIMMIE'S folks had scads of money—the kind that pays for white Rolls Royce sports roadsters," said Marcus Shoup, Xenia attorney, recently of James Aswell, conductor of the "My New York" column in The Gazette with whom he roomed at Princeton Prep School.

"You've got me mixed up with one of the younger Rockefeller's," Aswell protests in a feature story carried by Central Press Association, which syndicates his articles. "In the first place my folks never were that well off and in the second, they kept me strapped financially—for my own good they said it was, too."

Jimmy wants it known that even now he doesn't own a white sports roadster—or any other kind of automobile. Shoup admits he never saw the alleged Rolls Royce roadster but claims that Jimmy invited him down to Baltimore to ride in it.

Shoup also recalls that the home folks down in Louisiana wanted to run Jimmy for congress down there. He wavered for a time, and then turned down the lure of politics for the chance to do newspaper work. Regardless of what you think, neither one is as bad as the other.

HALT EXPENDITURE FOR SANITARIUM

LORAIN, O., April 28—State examiners today halted further expenditures of Lorain County's new tuberculosis sanitarium pending an investigation of alleged illegal buying.

The building, now nearly completed, was provided for by a bond issue of $404,000 but the building commission already has spent about $425,000 in construction, the examiners charged.

State Examiner H. T. Manners said he would submit his findings to Attorney General Gilbert Bettman at Columbus for rulings to determine the method of action.

ELEAZER

Mr. and Mrs. Donald St. John, Tippencanoe City, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Pagett.

Mr. Raymond Middleton is ill, suffering from pneumonia. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith, Spring Valley, spent Sunday with Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith.

Mrs. Viola Long spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Faulkner.

BAKER NOMINEE OF STUDENT MEETING

CLEVELAND, O., April 28—New-ton D. Baker, former secretary of war, today was the "nominee" of Western Reserve University students for the presidency.

Baker received 552 votes on the second ballot last night at a mock Democratic convention which virtually ignored Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. Alfred E. Smith drew the next best support with 195 votes. Gov. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma received thirty-one votes and Speaker John Garner, sixteen.

Roosevelt's block of thirty-three votes in the first ballot disappeared when the second was taken.

The student-delegates walked out before "nominating" a vice-presidential candidate.

JURY DELIBERATES FATE OF AMERICANS IN HAWAII SLAYING

present a case for the defense which left few dry eyes in the court room.

It was Darrow's last appearance before the bar, he said, and he summoned all the courtroom cunning and while he has gained in fifty years of defense to plead that the four be permitted to go free. There was no stir—save the waving of palm leaf fans—as Darrow paraded in front of the seven Caucasians, two Chinese and three Hawaiians, now thundering out his points, now pleading in a voice broken with emotion, now calmly summing up the defense that Massie killed Kahahawai in a moment of insanity which might come to any man whose wife had been treated as Thalia Massie.

Darrow did not need the doctor he had asked to be present, but when his three hour summation was completed, he appeared a tired old man. His long shaggy hair, drooped into his eyes. His hands shook. His face was beaded with perspiration.

It was a plea for humanity. "Place humanity above the law," he said. "Free a tortured husband, a tortured mother and two children who were faithful to those they loved."

"Any man who is ashamed of human feelings, is ashamed of life. He wouldn't have been born if his father and mother hadn't had human feelings."

"I wonder how you will sleep nights, if these defendants don't go free."

He told concisely the story of the attack on Thalia by five men, of the mental worry which weighed down "Tommy" Massie, of the things that had happened to change the serene life of the Massies and Mrs. Portesque, of the attempt to get a confession from Kahahawai which culminated in his saying "we done it."

"I tell you Massie's brain cracked under the strain. Any man's would have under similar conditions. He wasn't sane when he shot Kahahawai," Darrow said.

"Is it any wonder his mind was affected. I've never heard a crueler nor a sadder story than the one she (Thalia) told. Wasn't it enough to turn any man's mind. Wouldn't it unsettle your mind to have your wife go through such a thing?"

He dismissed one prosecution alienist who contended Massie was sane as a man who "sits at his door like a spider waiting for flies. He takes the first fly or offer that comes along. He would just as soon swear to destroy a man's life as to save it."

He contended facts showed that Massie was not in a rage when he shot Kahahawai or he would have shot several times instead of once, that all the facts pointed to a moment of insanity.

Then with tears streaming down his face, Darrow summed up:

"I never knew anything of a feeling against any race. I think the people of the Pacific Islands must learn to love peace. Otherwise the Pacific will run red with the blood of man. I put this case above race and nationality. I ask everyone in the jury box to forget everything but the human angle. I would like to think gentlemen, that I had done a small part in bringing peace and justice to these islands."

When he completed Darrow picked up his papers and walked slowly and wearily to his chair. Mrs. Massie, sitting beside her husband, was weeping. Mrs. Portesque was composed and shook the hand of the counsel.

Then Kelley concluded the argument for the prosecution.

"I'd like to refer first to the speech of Mr. Darrow. I think a great lawyer," he said. "Mr. Darrow appealed to your sympathy. But sympathy is not the plea advanced for his client. That plea was insanity. 'Darrow told you also that it didn't make any difference who fired the shot that killed Kahahawai. They could fool you and us but we forced them to show their hand.'"

"It was the selfishness of the man who insisted upon his wife

How One Man Lost 22 Pounds

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—my first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now I feel like a new man."

To lose fat SAFELY and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle at any drugstore in the world and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back. All good druggists will be glad to supply you.

Adv.

going to parties when she didn't want to go. Lt. Massie insisted upon her going to the Alawal Inn. Then they put that poor girl there (Mrs. Massie) on the altar of his ego. They put her on the stand here to make a Roman holiday in this courtroom.

"You must remember that so far as the territory was concerned Joe Kahahawai went to his grave an innocent man."

He said Massie called upon

Jones and Lord, who were "taught to kill," because he feared having fellow officers with him. He said "They let a man bleed to death, inch by inch."

Then in summation he said:

"Are you going to give Massie a ticket of leave so he can blithely kiss Hawaii good bye? Why they'll make him an admiral if you do. They'll put him on the chief of staff. Admiral Pratt (who made public the report on affairs in the islands after the Kahahawai slaying) and Massie think together. They believe in lynch law."

"I'd like you to remember this, though. As long as the American flag flies above the courthouse and not an admiral's pennant, you have to uphold the oath. You have a most vital task and there is no admiral to influence you. And as General Butler said, 'To hell with admirals.'"

Your Luck for Today

If you wake a person who is sleeping in a chair, you will become rich.

In Wales it is considered lucky to hear the first cuckoo on April 23, and very unlucky to hear it before April 6.

In Germany, Thursday is considered the unluckiest day of the week; a day on which there should be no weddings, no important papers signed, and no new clothes purchased.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Teach me thy way, O Lord, and lead me in plain path, because of mine enemies. — Psalm xxvii, 11.

ENDOWING COLLEGES

A survey of the educational endowment field in this country shows that in the last 10 years the endowment funds of 50 leading American universities and colleges have increased 113 per cent. That is to say, they jumped from $433,244,000 in 1922 to $923,522,000 in 1931, a gain of $490,278,000. Strangely — or otherwise, when American interest in education is remembered — the endowments of these institutions last year increased 5.6 per cent, or $48,900,000.

A decade ago only 48 colleges and universities in the United States had permanent endowment funds exceeding $2,000,000. The number of institutions having such funds last year was 108. Their combined endowments aggregated $1,297,412,000.

The survey further shows that there are 846 privately operated colleges and professional schools in the country. These are in addition to the many schools, colleges and universities supported by States or their political subdivisions. The privately operated institutions must depend very largely upon private philanthropy to provide the sinews of education, where the tuition fees are not sufficient for that purpose—which is nearly everywhere.

The fact that college and university endowments have more than doubled in the last 10 years and that last year, when many other things decreased, they continued to increase, would seem to show that Americans take an adequate interest in teaching their young minds to shoot.

SEEKING FLOWERS

Already spring is unlocking the flowers far and wide over the countryside. She puts them there for the delectation of man. City dwellers, whose abbreviated contact with Nature's beauties makes them hungry for wild flowers, will soon be pouring out on every highway in search of them. Some will come back laden with the spoils of an ignoble chase — flowers, torn up by the roots, to wilt, and shortly to be thrown away.

A little reflection would make that sort of vandalism impossible. A flower is never so beautiful as in its natural setting. Suddenly to come upon a colony of hepaticas or a carpet of trilliums out where it belongs is to the true lover of flowers a thrilling and delightful experience. Vandals have made such experiences well nigh out of date in parts of this country. They have carried the destruction of some of the most beautiful wild flowers to the point where it has been found expedient to protect them by law. They have robbed posterity of what should have been a joy forever.

The love of flowers is a natural and noble instinct, which can be satisfied without mutilating the objects of it. The beautiful plants that beautify the roadsides and woods at this season of the year ask all the world to come and enjoy them. They make but one condition: That they be allowed to brighten their little day and die where Nature has placed them. Only an ingrate will deny them that.

THE HITLERITES

Adolf Hitler and his National Socialists failed to win the overwhelming victory they hoped to gain in the German Diet elections recently. They fell far short of acquiring control of the Prussian Diet, their special objective. But they did develop all the strength there was any real reason to think they would show, and certainly all they had a right to think they could muster immediately after discomfiture in a Nationwide Presidential election.

The Nazis made substantial gains in legislative representation all along the line. In Prussia, where they polled more than eight million votes against about thirteen and a half millions polled in the whole of Germany last month, the Hitlerites now have the biggest bloc in the Diet, thus giving their chief rivals, the Communists, a balance of power. They are immensely popular, particularly in East Prussia where Hitler made a spectacular whirlwind campaign, flavored with promises that the Polish corridor would be abolished.

Altogether the National Socialists come through twice as strong as they were two years ago, and though they control no legislative body they constitute the most numerous political party in Germany.

FOSTERING PATRIOTISM

Virginia, the "Old Dominion," is again fostering patriotism in a charming manner. The current week has been designated as Virginia Historic Garden Week, during which 100 old estates will be open to the visiting public. At the same time, Gov. John G. Pollard is host to the annual Governors' Conference which adjourned recently from Richmond to Ash Lawn, near Charlottesville, formerly the home of James Monroe, fifth President of the United States, to unveil and dedicate a statue of Monroe.

Among the estates the people of the United States may visit this week are some noted for their boxwood gardens, some for their houses built in Colonial days before 1776.

Although the United States is a comparatively young Nation, those who stroll through the delightful gardens and gaze upon the rambling houses with their great chimneys and wide, hospitable porches will remember this Nation's beginnings and be proud that we retain memorials of a leisurely mode of living which, nevertheless, bred gentlemen and patriots who wanted their broad acres to flourish in a Land of Liberty.

READY TO GO

Prof. Auguste Piccard is getting ready for another ascent into the stratosphere, which he hopes to penetrate to a height of 12 miles. The gondola of his balloon was recently located in the Tyrolean Alps. It has been retrieved and is being readjusted for the new attempt.

But the one unfortunate touch of nature in this which makes the whole world kin comes to us in the picture of the workmen hauling the gondola through the Alpine snows. Plainly visible on the sides of the spherical contraption are scrawled signatures which almost entirely cover the surface.

From the inside of the meaneast telephone booth to the burnished aluminum interior of the Empire State Building tower in New York one finds these insane scrawlings. Even in Detroit vandals have gouged the fine bronze doors of the Livingstone Memorial on Belle Isle. No surface is sacred to these creatures who must seek to identify themselves with beauty or achievement or history by pitiful, cheap, destructive inscriptions. As the children say: "Pools' names and fools' faces are always seen in public places."

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK. — Wide-eyed wanderings: At intervals of an evening, I like to drift along Lexington avenue in the Forties and Fifties, past the absorbing hodge-podge of shops, the antique emporiums and the bazaars which are difficult to classify.

All have just the proper spice of swank — inoculated by nearby Park avenue. Windows of antiques are, to this reporter, either oppressive to the point of being painful or else a tumble of gayly arresting items.

One snooty little shop with a canopy stretched to the curb had on display, among other things, a gilt angel which might have been clipped from a proscenium arch; a handsome ship model in a bottle; a musical instrument which appeared to have wrapping twine for strings and resembled a cross between a lute, an Australian boomarang and a mandolin; a chess set carved from soap, and a miniature automobile which developed on inspection to be a clock, a barometer and an automatic calendar to compute the month, season and day.

The last of these particularly caught my fancy. It recalled the case of a well-known Broadway playboy who died a year or so ago. He had an ancient, glittering instrument in his room which served the manifold purposes of the little auto.

No love of antiques prompted the purchase. He simply had reached the point where days blurred into one another under the impact of morning-after headaches, and he had even begun to grow somewhat hazy on occasion about the month — after a particularly strenuous evening.

He had also become bashful about calling the desk clerk of his hotel and inquiring: "Would you be good enough to tell me whether this is June or July, or perhaps October?"

A week after the marvel was installed he discovered that the names of all the months were inscribed in elaborate German script — a language of which he didn't know a single unmut. He had bought it while slightly cock-eyed.

RAT-TAT-TATTLE
Mary Pickford stood in line at a local movie palace the other evening for three quarters of an hour to view an unusually popular flicker. . . . In the same mob were three of the town's columnists. . . . The inscription, "Central Branch," on the main Y. W. C. A. building here puzzles me. . . . If it's the head shake, how could it also be a branch? . . . Now some of readers will point out to me why I should go to the foot of the class.

The stores seem to have hit on an exploitation scheme all together: showing various articles in the light of use in other lands. . . . Dolls, in one place, in the costumes of 79 lands, cosmetics in another, as used by all the races of the world, even spectacles through the ages.

Which reminds me of a note I got some time ago: oculists' signs are always in larger lettering than the majority of other shingles in a block — on the sound assumption that if passersby can see normally they aren't prospective customers anyway.

MOVING TIME!

WOMAN IN POLITICAL LIFE SEEN UNDER NO HANDICAP EXCEPT EARLY IN CAREER

WASHINGTON.—Representative Florence P. Kahn, senior member of the feminine bloc in congress, reflected a moment before answering the question: Is her sex an asset or a liability to a woman in politics?

"I think I would say," she answered, "that, at least at first, it is a liability to her. Until she has proved herself, the voters probably have their doubts of her ability to represent them efficiently, where they would take a man's ability for granted. However, after she has been in office as long as I, or as Mrs. Norton or Mrs. Rogers, I believe the electorate ceases to consider anything except her record, and her sex does not particularly signify, one way or the other."

"Perhaps," surmised the California congresswoman, "the element of accident enters somewhat less into a woman's than into a man's victory on election day."

"The very fact that she is a woman, and that women are not so numerous as men in politics, makes her noticeable. Folk are likelier to know for whom they are voting if they cast their ballots for a woman candidate. She is not so much submerged as a man often is, in her party."

"Of course those of us who succeeded husbands, in public life before us, may be described as political accidents in that sense. However, my next campaign will be for my fifth term in congress. I unquestionably owed my earlier elections to my husband's reputation. If chosen again, I think I can believe that it was my own accomplishment."

Do women show a preference for a woman candidate, in voting? "That again," said Mrs. Kahn, "depends on whether or not she has proved herself."

"They are not so partisan as men, and at first I think they are more critical, even than men, of a woman aspirant for office, if for no other reason than that they consider her experimental. They dislike experiments, being naturally conservative."

"But let a woman make good and they take an obvious pride in her, and rally to her support loyally."

Women naturally are conservative, are they? How about the ones who take leading parts in radical demonstrations?—Frequent making twice as much trouble for the police as several times their number of the Bolshevik brethren.

Mrs. Kahn laughed. "Oh, there are exceptions," she admitted, "and I don't dispute their deadliness, but it isn't characteristic of the sex."

"I'd like to know, for example, the generality of the Russian women's opinion of Communism. I venture the guess that there never would have been a revolution if they had been consulted. It is a man-made regime, in my judgment."

Well, have women purified politics, as it was predicted they would, when the nineteenth amendment was adopted? "They have influenced politics, anyway," answered the congresswoman, "most decidedly. They have made political questions the subject of domestic discussion."

"In the old days, when the family sat down for dinner, and wife asked, 'What's all this I hear about the tariff discussion in congress?' hubby used to reply, 'It wouldn't do any good for me to try to tell you, because you couldn't possibly understand a word of it.' Now, at the evening hour, wife explains the sales tax to hubby, having been listening to a speech all about it, over the radio."

Is there any accounting for the circumstance that the average intelligence of the feminine bloc's members (all of whom are of first rate ability) is distinctly above that of the masculine bloc (which includes a few outstanding personalities but is largely pretty mediocre)?

"Do you think that's a fact?" said Mrs. Kahn, in obvious gratification.

"I'm afraid it isn't a fair comparison. You see, there are only half a dozen of us, against 429 of the others, not counting a vacancy or two. It's too one-sided a contrasting alignment to justify a reasoned conclusion."

But that simply is Mrs. Kahn's modesty.

John Bull, a popular synonym for the English people, made its first appearance in 1712 in a popular print entitled "Law is a Bottomless Pit."

"Broken Back" Not Serious

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Many years ago there used to be a complaint known as "railway spine." Many people who were injured or jolted on railroads complained of pain and stiffness in the back. Sometimes the injuries were very trivial—such as being thrown by the motion of the train against the arm of a seat—and the disability seemed out of all proportion to the cause.

For that reason "railway spine" applied to the condition came to be considered a neurosis by physicians.

Then came the X-Ray. At first it was considered a sort of scientific toy. One could photograph a purse and see the coins and keys inside, or a shoe and see the nails in the heel. Then it was found that it would show the position of bones and surgeons began to use it in case of accidents and injuries. They discovered that many conditions they had considered sprains really were fractures of bones.

At first the X-Ray tubes used were so weak that they would not reveal the structure of any but the most superficial bones—the bones of the arms and legs. With improvement in the machinery, the rays could be made to penetrate more and more deeply, and in the course of time pictures of the spine were made which revealed clearly and completely all the structure of the vertebrae.

Then it was found that most of the cases of railway spine actually were a fracture of a vertebra. Sometimes of the little processes at the side of the vertebrae—sometimes of the bone itself.

The conception of "broken back" therefore, must be changed. The conception, at least, which supposes that it is always a very serious and very crippling injury.

A surgeon who did not stop to think what an older generation's idea of broken back means, sent a telegram to the mother of his patient, who had been in an automobile accident. It read: "John fractured two vertebrae. Doing well." The mother translated "fractured vertebrae" into "broken back" and was nearly frantic until she discovered that there was just a little spicule of bone chipped off. John had a pretty sore back for a while, but is now getting about as well as ever.

So long as the nerves and spinal cord, which the vertebrae surround, are not injured, a "broken back" may not be a very serious injury, although the pain and disability last a long time.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
Mrs. R. K.: "Is tuberculin a cure for tuberculosis? How is it given to a person?"

Answer: Tuberculin alone is not a cure for tuberculosis. Many physicians do not employ it at all. The best cure for tuberculosis of the lungs consist of rest, fresh air and good food. When it is employed, tuberculin is given hypodermically in very minute quantities.

Hard Work Doesn't Appeal

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Do you think it would be better for me to stay home and work like a housewife or to run off and get married and be happy?" asks my little daughter.

Unhappy Blonde, aged 15.

If you really could be happy the rest of your life by running away and getting married, no one would have the heart to prevent you, my dear. But that is not at all likely to happen.

The very fact of running away and marrying would bring a lot of new troubles, and if you weathered them you soon would find that married life, like any other kind, would have its own woes.

One is not even assured of being able to live without "working like a horse," or a busy bee or any other kind of animal or insect. Many a girl has married to dodge the everlasting dish washing and dusting at home, or the grind of an office or store job, only to find that she has to work harder than she ever dreamed of in her maiden days.

There is a certain glamour to getting married and being a bride and keeping the new furniture spic and span and cooking for an appreciative hubby, but that wears off in time. The glossy new furniture grows old and shabby and meals come all too frequently, and hubby forgets to praise the dishes and the housework becomes drudgery again, and there is no new life to fly to for escape.

So you, like Hamlet, better "Bear the ills you have than fly to others that you know not of," especially as you are only 15.

And besides, Unhappy Blonde, does the boy friend's wealthy family know that he is planning this elopement, and how would they react to that? They might make trouble, you know. And another thing, you could not marry at 16, that is not at all your parent's consent.

Sorry your mother makes you work too hard and that you are unhappy. But I advise you to bear your troubles and get through business school, and maybe then you will get a job that will be to your liking, where you won't have time to do the family washing and ironing. And try to be cheerful about it, even if it is hard. Your mother is probably having a hard time trying to get the money to send you to school.

Just A Blue-Eyed Girl thinks she is in love with a boy who has been going with another girl for four years. She wants to know whether she should wait for him?

Don't see the use, my dear, as he never has seemed interested. Why not forget him and go out and have a good time? As you have never gone out with him you can't know whether you like him or not. Don't you think this love of yours is merely in your mind? Forget it, my advice.

Expert's Hard Word Massage

By GLADYS GLAD

"DEAR MISS GLAD: I consulted a scalp specialist recently and was told, among other things, that I should use 'petrissage' on my scalp daily. I didn't want to try it, my ignorance, so I didn't inquire. I'd be extremely grateful to you if you'd tell me just what 'petrissage' is. Because I do want to have pretty, healthy hair."

"PHYLLIS," Petrissage is nothing more than a method of massage. It is deep kneading, pinching, rubbing, etc. This form of massage is excellent for the scalp and hair health, as it stimulates the circulation through the scalp tissues, and increases its supple freedom. Pinch the scalp between the thumb and the fingers. Hold your palms firmly against the head, under the head, and rotate the scalp so that it moves freely over the skull. All these movements will help to end to promote good hair health.

"Dear Miss Glad: If there ever was a downhearted female two months ago, it was I. You see, my hair began to get thinner and thinner, until I was afraid I'd be bald. But, thank you for the 'Beauty Culture' booklet, my hair has become thick and lustrous again. However, what I'd like to know now is—what method of hair bleaching is usually used in beauty shops? Can you enlighten me about this?"

"SOPHIA," A mixture of peroxide and a little ammonia is the usual preparation used in most beauty shops for bleaching hair. It is applied with a brush in liquid form, to small strands of hair, and allowed to remain on for a certain length of time, depending upon the shade of lightness desired. The bleaching is also sometimes done with a paste. The peroxide and ammonia solution is mixed with astringent—acetic acid (white vinegar) and applied to the hair in paste form. In this case, the solution does the bleaching, while the magnesium carbonate serves merely as a base to insure moisture for a longer period of time. However, I am against bleaching hair at home, and if you want good results, I'd advise you to let an experienced operator do any such work.

"Dear Miss Glad: I'm sorry to confess that I'm a bit confused about my present skin blemishes. I've been advised differently on several occasions—and I'd feel most indebted to you if you'd tell me just what the difference is between comedones and milia."

There is quite a marked difference between comedones (usually known as blackheads) and milia (generally called whiteheads). Comedones are caused by the retention of oily matter and dust in the ducts of the oil glands, and are usually surmounted by black tips. Proper cleansing methods, and correct use of packs and astringent-acting preparations, will eliminate these. Milia are tiny little sacs under the skin in which hardened sebaceous matter is deposited. The quickest and most effective method of eradication for these latter blemishes is through expert manipulation of the electric needle.

Editor's Note: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. For her articles on "Care of the Hands and Feet" and "Care of the Feet and Legs," two cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Coch Walter C. Wilson, young maestro of athletics at Xenia Central High School, is concerned over the new radical revision in the basketball code, designed to take the "stall" out of the sport and speed up the game for the sake of spectators.

While agreeing that "stalling" will certainly be eliminated, "Pinky" mourns the fact that the style of offense to which Buccanier quintets have grown accustomed will be disrupted.

The change referred to is now generally known. It is the newly adopted ruling whereby a line is drawn to bisect the center of the playing floor. The team obtaining possession of the ball in its back court is required to advance it beyond the center line in ten seconds, on penalty of losing the ball out of bounds.

From what he admits to be a purely selfish standpoint, Coach Wilson likes the change not a bit. And you can hardly blame him. Buccanier court teams have always been taught a deliberate method of advancing the ball down the floor. In this manner they have won games they might have lost had they tried to match the opposing team's quick-breaking system.

The "ten-second" rule, as "Pinky" sees it, will work a particular hardship on teams playing on a small floor. Likewise, styles of defense will be changed he thinks. The zone defense may be a thing of the past. The old order will change, giving way to the man-for-man system in which opponents will be "checked" far down the playing floor.

For the second straight year the American League softball season has been initiated with a tie game.

Last season it was Krippendorf and St. Brigid teams which figured in a 5 to 5 draw the first game.

This year it remained for Company L and Central High School to participate in a 2 to 2 no-decision contest Tuesday night.

Southpaw softball pitchers are scarce articles, but one of the port-side variety has at last been uncovered here.

The forkhanded hurler is Harris Lane, who is a high school student but pitches for the National Guard team of the American League.

Lane was an outfielder for Central High last summer. Tuesday night he made his debut as a pitcher against his old teammates. And he showed them no mercy. He struck out thirteen batters, possibly an unlucky number, for Central tallied a couple of unearned runs and escaped with a 2 to 2 tie. Lane, contrary to the accepted belief that all southpaw pitchers are as wild as last March's hare, issued only one base on balls.

Ninth Inning Rally Beats Spring Vally

CHICK HATCHERY IS VICTOR IN OPENING FRACAS WEDNESDAY

Misplays Pay Way For Scoring As Hitting Is Light

Lloyd Downey had a shade the better of Herman Blair in what is generally known as a pitchers' battle, and though neither team scored an earned run, the Xenia Chick Hatchery squeezed out a 3 to 2 triumph over Spring Valley in a National League softball contest staged before another large crowd Wednesday night at Cox Field.

Between them the rival teams perpetrated ten errors in the field, and these misplays paved the way for all the runs tallied by each team.

The winning team waited until the first half of the ninth round to produce a two-run rally that turned an impending defeat into a close victory.

For the first four innings the game was scoreless, but in the fifth the Hatchery broke ice and mustered one run. With one out, Briley, short fielder, got his second straight single of the game. Weaver was safe at first when his roller to short was fumbled and Briley reached second. On Downey's single, Briley scored but Weaver, also trying to cross the plate, was cut down on a relay to the catcher.

The Valley team squared the count in the sixth when Blair hit a double, the only extra base blow of the game, went to third when Reeves muffed the relay to the infield, and scored after the catch when Benson drove a fly to short center.

In the eighth stanza the Valley softballers forged ahead, scoring a run without the aid of a hit. A Huff, first batter, was safe at first on an error by Reeves. He went to second on a passed ball, took third on an out at first and scored another "sacrifice fly" by Benson, who lofted to Jones in left field.

And came the first half of the ninth. Reeves got on first by virtue of an error and took second on a single by Jenkins, his second hit of the game. Jones forced Reeves at third, after which Jenkins and Jones figured in a double steal of third and second, respectively.

Blackburn rolled to the box, and as he was being retired at first, Jenkins made a break for the plate. The return throw from first was dropped by H. Huff when the runner collided with him, and not only was Jenkins safe but Jones raced all the way home from second with what proved to be the winning run before the ball could be retrieved.

Spring Valley went out in order in its half of the ninth. Downey, winning pitcher, released six hits and Blair, hurling for Spring Valley, was touched for seven. Each hurler struck out three batters and walked nary a player.

The O. S. and S. O. Home cadets and Ex-Highs will meet in an American League contest Thursday night.

SWIMMING CHAMPION MAKES GOOD IN THE MOVIES

Three poses of Johnny Weissmuller in "Tarzan of the Apes."

U. S. Envoy Honored in London

The first public appearance, in his new capacity, of Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury and now U. S. Ambassador to the Court of St. James, was made in distinguished company. The auspicious occasion was the recent Pilgrims' dinner held in Mr. Mellon's honor in London and attended by the cream of Burke's Peerage. Photo shows Mr. Mellon (left), Lord Derby (center) and the Prince of Wales at their table during the banquet. The Prince, a finished after-dinner speaker, paid many glowing tributes to the American envoy and to the country he represents.

FROM YOUTH TO AGE—BUT ONLY IN MAKE-BELIEVE

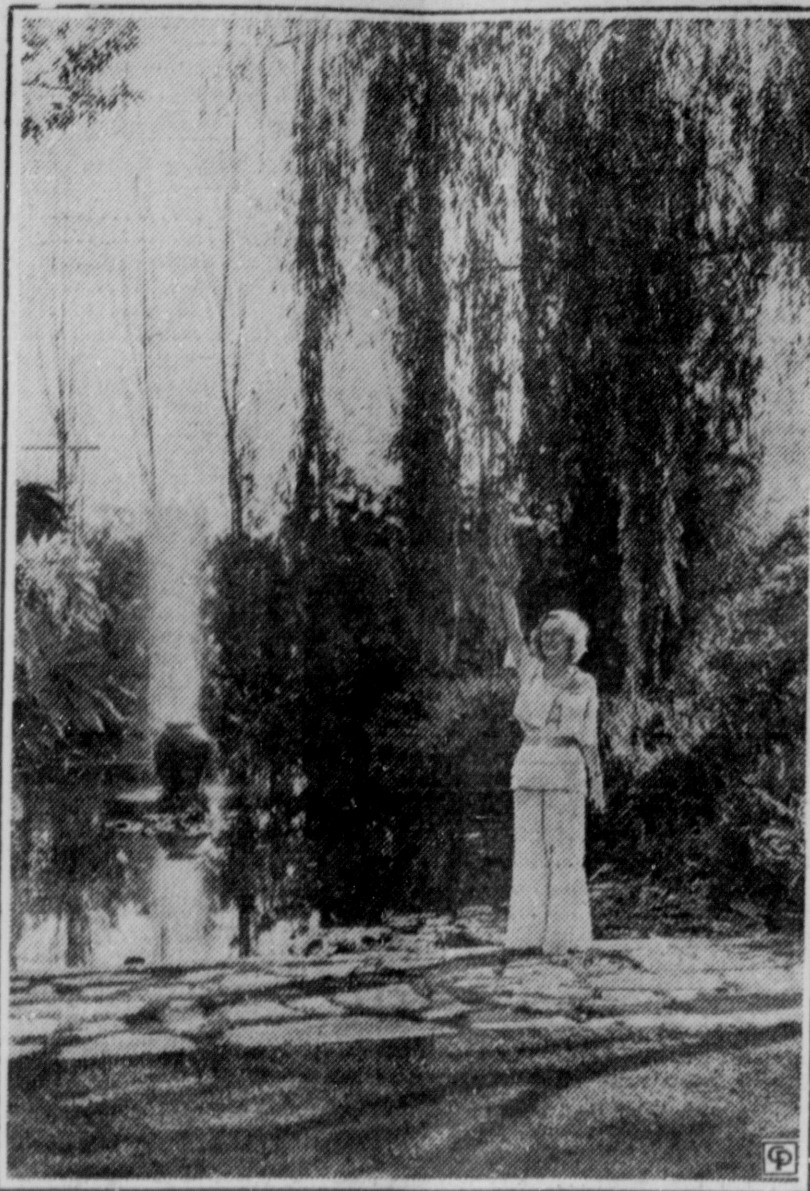

Barbara Stanwyck, filming Edna Ferber's "So Big", appears in the center as a young girl; at left, she approaches old age. Of course, she begins to grow older; at right, it's all due to make-up.

Thar's Gold in the Virginny Hills

Gold deposits recently found in this ledge near Parsons, W. Va., presumably running through three ravines more than a half-mile apart, are said to be the richest ever found in the East. The precious metal assays $166.80 per ton, and active steps to operate on a commercial scale are already under way. The original discovery was made by Coyton Phillips within the boundaries of the Monongahela National Forest. The rocks shown in the picture are gold-bearing.

Star Gazing

Guess What This Is!

This is not a public park, but the garden of a movie star—Miriam Hopkins—at her new home, in Santa Monica, Cal.

FORSAKES OPERA AND TURNS GUIDE

When the depression reduced her income as an operatic star, beautiful Senorita Maria Estele de Francisca gave up her musical career to become Mexico City's first woman guide to tourists. She has played hostess to several of America's most famous celebrities, including a group of Hollywood actresses. "I am making twice as much in this as I did when singing in the National Opera house and over the radio," Senorita de Francisca remarks.

WAR VET, 'DEAD' THREE TIMES, LIVES

Three times Robert Weakley, World war veteran of Memphis, Tenn., has been declared dead. The first time it was in an official war dispatch, the second on a memorial tablet on a Memphis statue, and the third, recently, when a plaque was placed on the new federal building in Memphis in honor of the soldier dead of Shelby county. But like Mark Twain, Weakley declares it is all "grossly exaggerated" as he works every day in his print shop. Weakley went to France in 1917, was wounded twice, gassed once,

Sculpturing the Silent "Messiah"

Although he refuses to utter a single word, Shri Meher Baba, hailed by many as the Indian "Messiah," has no objection to sitting for a bust by sculptor Merritt in his studio at Kensington, London. Shri Meher Baba, who is 38 years old, is holding the special alphabet board he uses to converse. Seven years ago he took a vow of silence which he has steadfastly kept. He will soon visit the United States, where he will break silence and deliver his message to the world.

P. T. BARNUM LED JUMBO ON FIRST TOUR 50 YEARS AGO

Remember Jumbo, the world's largest elephant? At least you recall how he was killed at St. Thomas, Canada, Sept. 15, 1885, by a locomotive when, as the story goes, he came to the rescue of one of his fellows while parading to the circus trains. It was 50 years ago this spring that Jumbo began his tour of the United States when P. T. Barnum, the circus man, purchased him from the London Zoological Gardens where he had been on exhibit for 18 years. Jumbo, an African elephant, stood 11 feet 6 inches and weighed six tons. He was exhibited for four circus seasons. His skeleton now reposes in the American Museum of Natural History, New York, and his mounted hide is in the Barnum museum at Tufts college, Boston. Jumbo cost Barnum $10,000.

Costly Neglect

Stating that American taxpayers are levied $38,000,000 annually to educate "repeaters" who have fallen behind in their studies due to poor teeth, Dr. Martin Dewey (above) of New York, President of the American Dental Association, is heading the organization's campaign to educate school children in dental hygiene. Educational officials throughout the country are cooperating.

Barking Around the World

It is not every dog that can bark and have the sound of his own voice go around the world, sneak up behind him and start an argument. But that's what happened to "Shorty," this wire-haired terrier, who recently barked into a microphone at Schenectady, N. Y. The bark was broadcast by short wave to Holland, relayed to Java, thence to Australia and back to the Schenectady studio. His own voice, coming from the loud speaker after its 24,000-mile journey, startled "Shorty," who thought another dog was trying to horn in on his program and increased his vocal efforts to outshine the other.

Among the distinguished Europeans who recently arrived in New York aboard the S.S. Ile de France were M. and Mme. Michel Clemenceau, who are visiting the United States on vacation bent. M. Clemenceau is a son of the late Georges Clemenceau, celebrated French statesman, known as the "Tiger," who was Premier of France during the trying period of the World War.

CHARLES N. SMITH, CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES ON WEDNESDAY

CHARLES N. SMITH

Charles Nelson Smith, 90, Civil War veteran, died at his home on W. Washington St., Jamestown, Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. He had been in failing health two years and in a serious condition ten weeks suffering from heart trouble and a complication of diseases.

Mr. Smith was born near New Jasper but had spent most of his life in or near Jamestown. During the Civil War he was a member of Company A, 74th Regiment, O. V. I. and was the last surviving member of his company.

Mr. Smith is survived by two children, Mrs. Thomas Riggs, Jamestown, formerly of Dayton and Miss Lucy Smith, at home. A sister, Mrs. Cyrus Brown, Xenia; two brothers, Matt Smith, Alpha and Daniel Smith, Xenia, also survive besides two grandchildren, Mrs. John Green and Jack Riggs, Dayton. His wife preceded him in death twenty-six years.

Funeral services will be held at the home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in charge of the Rev. C. L. Buehler, pastor of the M. E. Church, Jamestown. Burial will be made in Jamestown Cemetery.

HOUSECLEANING HINTS GIVEN BY EXPERT

Spring housecleaning may be simplified, according to Miss Anne Biebricher, extension specialist for the department of home economics at the Ohio State University, who has some suggestions on this annual terror for husbands.

In cleaning shades, she says, it is best to wash the washable shades with water and mild soap. For the unwashable shades art gum or wall paper cleaner may be used effectively. It is always a poor practice to rub shades with a harsh cloth as this rubs the dirt in instead of removing it. When the shades are worn at the bottom, she suggests that a new hem be made. This is best done by holding the hem with paper clips, rather than pins, until it is sewed.

A way to clean other than wax finished furniture is to wash it thoroughly with a mixture containing 1 quart of water, 1 tablespoon of turpentine, and 3 tablespoons of linseed oil. After the furniture is washed rub thoroughly with a dry cloth. Wax finished furniture is best cleaned with a soft cloth dipped in turpentine.

Scratches in furniture, Miss Biebricher points out, can be made relatively inconspicuous by rubbing them with a cloth dipped in oil or furniture polish. If the scratches are deep, it is well to rub them with a cloth that has been dampened with turpentine and sprinkled with umber.

Dirty, dusty walls are best cleaned with a soft wall brush or wall paper cleaner. Never, she says, rub wallpaper with a harsh cloth as this only helps rub the dirt into the paper. If grease spots are present, they may be partially removed by holding a blotter over the objectionable spot and applying a warm iron. This is repeated several times until the spot becomes less noticeable.

EAST END GREINER CLUB MEETS FRIDAY

A meeting in the interests of the candidacy of E. E. Greiner, Springfield, candidate for the Republican nomination for congress from the seventh district, will be held under auspices of the East End Greiner Club at the Colored Masonic Temple, E. Main St., Friday evening.

The meeting will start at 8:15 o'clock with the singing of "America" by the assemblage, followed by the invocation by the Rev. Frank Liggett. Leroy Everett will act as master of ceremonies and the Buckeye Quartet will sing two selections during the evening. The principal address will be given by the Rev. John Arnold, Springfield. Mr. Greiner will not be present, being scheduled for an address at Urbana the same evening.

XENIA QUARTET TO BROADCAST SUNDAY

A mixed quartet from the First United Presbyterian Church, this city, will broadcast over station WSMK, Dayton, Sunday from 9:45 to 10 p. m. It was announced Thursday. The program will consist of gospel songs, Negro spirituals and a number composed by Mrs. William J. Cherry, near Xenia. The quartet broadcast from station WJAU, Columbus, in February.

Members of the quartet are Mrs. Cherry, soprano; Mrs. John Davidson, alto; Carl Ervin, tenor and Herman W. Eavey, bass. Miss Marjorie Street will be accompanist.

PAID FOR DREDGE

TOLEDO, O., Apr. 28.—The United States government today had received $6,000 and interest from the Pioneer Steamship Co. in settlement of damage to a government dredge by the company's freighter, William A. Payne, in Maumee Bay on Aug. 17, 1927.

Townsley Chick Chat

The liveability records on Thorogood chicks being reported to us from day to day are truly remarkable, and are proof of the value of accurate blood testing as carried out in every one of our breeding flocks.

Mrs. W. R. T., of Selma, O., writes as follows: "I want to tell you how well we are pleased with the 200 W. Rocks we purchased Feb. 15. I still had 200 chicks at 6 weeks old—all almost feathered, and they are very fine. Never had one that was sick, and not a sign of any disease,—just thrifty, healthy chicks."

Poultry is the most profitable thing on the farm,—if you have good poultry.

May is the natural time to raise chicks. Weather conditions are most favorable, and the cost of brooding is lowest. Storage holdings of eggs are approximately one third of normal, and egg receipts are the lowest since 1925. This almost certainly means better egg prices soon.

Townsley Thorogood chicks will help you bring back prosperity. Order now for May delivery.

Lew Ayres Makes Good As Young Star Should

Carl Laemmle, Jr., has just taken up Lew Ayres' third option, which promotes the young star into the large salary class.

Lew has done extraordinarily well in Hollywood. When he made "All Quiet on the Western Front," both Louis Wolheim and John Wray were billed above him. Now he is one of Universal's two official stars, Tom Mix being the other.

Lew has never had two similar roles at Universal. In "All Quiet" and "The Doorway to Hell" he was killed at the end of the picture.

Lilian Bond
This beauty girl is a beauty in "Beauty and the Boss".

The studio now plans to use him in four pictures a year and has six stories ahead for him. "Shanghai Interlude" will be the first and will be followed by "Laughing Boy".

It took forty Polynesians to fashion and equip the Robinson Crusoe penthouse that Douglas Fairbanks uses in his new picture.

In dispatches from Papeete, Doug tells of scouring all the nearby islands to find the best native artisans. "What they can't make out of a coconut and a piece of bamboo" he says, "isn't to be found in a mail order catalogue."

The Fairbanks Crusoe is supposed to start from scratch and fashion all the implements himself. He'll use a knife made out of bamboo, a machete out of iron wood, a saw out of shells and sawfish and dozens of other ingenious inventions. His rope will be the liana vine and the hot and cold water in his penthouse will flow through bamboo pipes. He'll even have homemade golf clubs.

All of these have been contrived by the Polynesians. Fairbanks is expected to arrive in San Francisco May 7.

Greta Garbo hasn't the slightest intention of marrying anyone, despite that cable story. Her business manager Harry Eddington, denies it. The young man mentioned got a big splash in the fan magazines some time ago and also in that Rilla Palmberg "private life" of Greta, which so displeased the Swedish star.

Since Joel McCrea can't be two places at once, Eric Linden has been assigned by radio to play the masculine lead in Agnes Christine Johnson's story, "Freedom". This is the picture that Roland Brown will direct. McCrea will have his time filled up with a part in "The Most Dangerous Game".

Everything's happy at the Keaton menage—at least Buster gave Natalie a new limousine. She came out of the front porch and found it tied up in tissue paper.

Laura La Plante will replace Lilian Bond when Edward Everett Horton takes "Springtime for Henry" to San Francisco.

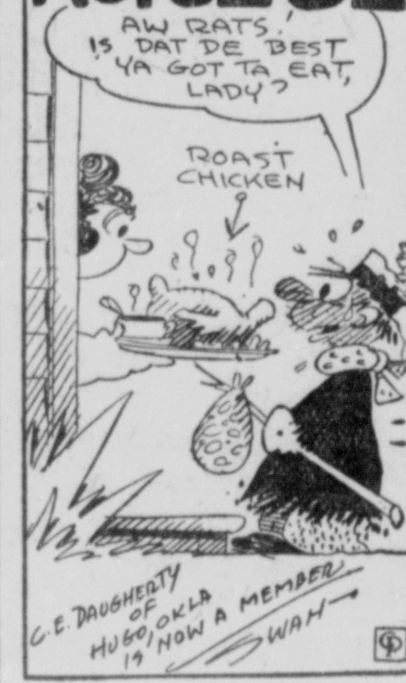

Mae Clarke is home from the hospital now, but it will be a month or six weeks before she can do any work.

EVASION DIDN'T
EVADE SENTENCE

INDEPENDENCE, Mo.—When it comes to the matter of evasion, Judge Steward of police court would unhesitatingly award the medal to Oscar Irvin, Negro.

Oscar appeared in Judge Steward's court, escorted by a policeman, who picked him up after complaints from a Negro woman that he was annoying her.

"You are charged with being drunk," intoned the judge.

"Well, judge, I wouldn't say I was guilty," Oscar replied.

"Were you sober?"

"No, I wouldn't say I was, judge, I was just drinking."

"You don't remember very much about what happened?"

"Well, I wouldn't say I did, and I wouldn't say I didn't," volunteered Oscar.

"How about this report you were chasing a woman about the neighborhood?"

"I don't remember that, but somebody told me she was chasing me around trying to get me sober."

The only decisive quotation of the hearing was Judge Steward's: "Five dollars fine."
